

H.E. Mr. Ban Ki-moon
Secretary-General
United Nations
New York

Excellency,

How many more babies have to die until the world community forces Turkey to do the proper thing and act to prevent or to stop what is happening at Turkey's shores. The situation is grave.

Syrian refugees in Turkey, fleeing their war torn country are forced to get into unworthy boats to get to Greece and to the rest of Europe thereafter. As a result, every day tens of people die in the Aegean, and most of them are babies. Turkey by not doing anything, is murdering these people.

People and businesses in Turkey are getting rich by sending the poor refugees to their deaths in the Aegean Sea.

We urge you to take immediate concrete steps and force Turkey to act responsible now.

Every hour that goes by more people loose their lives. This is a tragedy, and the world community is the audience.

How many more babies have to die for the world community to act?

Even the people, who manage to reach Greece alive, are not able to be taken care of properly due to the financial difficulties Greece is facing.

How can the world community allow this to happen?

The situation is grave.

We count on the United Nations to act immediately to correct the situation. I am sure the UN has the ability and the know how. We urge you to act and not allow one more death in the Aegean Sea.

ERAK Radio, a Greek Canadian online radio station, based in Toronto Canada, has taken action to help the refugees who arrive at the Greek islands, by starting an online fund raising campaign. Funds raised are used to buy supplies needed by the refugees. Our efforts, are very important, however as you can understand, they will not prevent the deaths of refugees who try to reach the islands.

Allow me, Excellency, to renew to you the assurances of my highest consideration.
